

CHAPTER 1

COMMUNICATION SKILLS - II

INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY (402)
ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE (417)

Lecture - 2

For reading* (Extras)

In verbal communication there is written and oral communication . You can write more types if asked :

Intrapersonal communication

This type of communication occurs within an individual, focusing on their internal thoughts, feelings, and ideas.

Examples:
Journaling
Note-taking
Writing a diary

Interpersonal communication

This type of communication involves the exchange of written messages between two or more people.

Examples:
E-mails
Texting
Letter

For reading* (Extras)

Interpersonal communication

Dyadic communication

A type of communication taking between two people. Example : Two friends are talking or business colleagues using email or calls.

Small group communication

A small group is involved in team for discussions like project group or press conference, board meetings. Small group helps in interacting with each partner present.

Public communication

information or messages to the general public or a specific group, using various tools and methods, with the aim of informing, educating, or persuading.

Effective - communication

It is the process of changing ideas , thoughts , opinions and data so that the message is recieved with chlarity and purpose.

Barriers to Effective communication :- Anything that prevents or disturbs the sending or recieving the message is considered as a barrier to communication. Such barrier can distort the result in failure of the communication process.

Effective - communication

Physical and Environmental based Barriers :- Environmental factors which prevent or reduce the sending and receiving of communication. Which includes physical distance , distracting noises and interferences.

Effective - communication

Interpersonal based Barriers :- Interpersonal barriers arise from emotions , social values or people. They cause psychological distance between people similar to physical distance. Thus the message may not get understood at all or be wrongly interpreted.

Our emotion may also affect our communication. For eg : We regret after being angry.

Effective - communication

Semantic Barriers :- These refer to symbols or visuals used in the message.

The barrier may arise due to the symbol we use, as it may mean different things to different people. For example, the 'thumbs up' gesture is recognised as a sign of approval or agreement in European countries, but it maybe interpreted as an indecent gesture in rural areas of India.

E.X. Linguistic related to language , pictures or actions

Effective - communication

Intrapersonal barriers :- it refers to the barriers that are within any individual to understand , analyze or to interpret any given information.

Effective - communication

Measures to Overcome Barriers to ensure that barriers to communication do not arise or can be overcome, we can take some steps related to overcoming some of these factors are:

- Be Prepared before Communicating : Often we are not properly prepared for communicating a message because we do not have enough information or knowledge of what we want to communicate. Either of these creates a barrier between us and the receiver.
- Give Sufficient Time : The message should not be communicated too fast; this is particularly true for oral communication.

Effective - communication

- Don't assume anything.
- Avoid overconfidence.
- Avoid making judgements.
- Respect the reciever.
- Improver the attitude.

Principles of effective communication

The most popular name of basic principles are known as 7C's of Effective Communication.

Questions

Question : Courtesy implies taking into consideration both the viewpoints as well as the feelings of the Question : A communication is both time-saving as well as cost-saving.

Question : Which one of the following is not one of the five W's whose answers will make a communication complete?

- (a) Where (b) When
- (c) What (d) Which

Basic writing skills

Writing skills are an important part of communication. Good writing skills allow you to communicate your message clearly. Work with no spelling, punctuation or grammatical mistakes. In any of these, poor writing skills create poor first impressions.

So, to ensure that we write correctly, we should understand some basic parts of a document such as kinds of sentences, phrases, parts of a sentence, parts of speech and construction of a paragraph.

Basic writing skills

Sentence : -A sentence is a set of words that is complete in itself and which contains a subject and a predicate part.

Kind of sentence : There are 4 kinds : Simple , Complex , Compound , Compound - complex.

Clause : The basic unit of grammar containing both subject and verb. It's like a building block for sentences. Clauses can be independent (complete sentences) or dependent (need an independent clause to complete the thought).

Basic writing skills

1. Simple : - consists of an independent clause with no conjunction or dependent clause. For example, "My home has four rooms."
2. Complex :- It contains one independent clause and at least one dependent clause. For example "Because it was chasing a rabbit, the dog jumped over the fence."
3. Compound :- It contains two independent clauses joined by a conjunction (e.g. and, but, or, as etc.).
For example, "My home is very big and it has four rooms."

Basic writing skills

4. Compound- complex It contains more than one independent clause and at least one dependent clause joined by conjunctions. For example, "The sun is shining now, so I think that we can go for swimming."

Basic writing skills

Phrases :- Phrases are a group of words that work together to communication an element of speech.

The subject refers to that part of the sentence which tells who or what the sentence is about. The subject is a noun , pronoun or noun phrase.

- Kailash ran across the road. ('Kailash' is a noun)
- They went to the market ('They' is a pronoun)
- The brown dog is sleeping ('The brown dog's is a noun phrase)

Basic writing skills

The predicate part of a sentence includes the verb and the words that relate to it. It tells what the subject does with an action verb or describes the subject.

Predicate can contain much information and may be quite long.

- The letter contained exciting news.
- The army officers are experienced persons who acquired their experience in the Kargil War.
- I am going to outside and may take some time to return.

Basic parts of Speech

In English language a word can be classified into eight basic parts of speech.

These are are follows:

- Noun :- Apple , Rahul , Vinti
- Pronoun :- He , She , It
- Verb :- Playing , Eating
- Adverb :- Quickly , fast , slow
- Preposition :- On , under , above
- Interjection :- wow , ouch , hurray
- Conjunction :- and
- Adjective :- Pretty , beautiful

Main parts of Speech

Main part of speech indicates how word function produce meaning in sentence.

Part of speech	Use	Example
Noun	Words reffering to place , person , thing. Sometimes used with an article.	Rajiv wrote a long letter.
Pronoun	Pronoun is a words used in place of noun.	She ran away as her parents left.
Adjective	Adjectives describe other words specifically nouns and pronouns.	That girl is very pretty.
Verbs	Verbs shows action.	A girl is playing in the ground.
Adverbs	Adverbs add meaning to verbs , adjectives or other adverbs. They answer how , when , where	She cried very loudly

Part of speech

Use

Example

Articles

a , an , the are known as articles. These are generally used before nouns. A (consonant)
An (a , e , i , o , u) , The (specific or particular)

The moon , An umbrella , A car.

Conjunctions

Are words that join two sentence , phrase or noun.
And , or , but.

Either chocolate or vanilla. Amit and Isha are playing.

Prepositions

Connect one work with another to show relation.
Answer where , when , who , how (on , at , in , etc)

The cat in on the table. Anika is under the tree.

Interjections

These words express strong emotions , like happiness , surprise , anger or pain , (!) = in the end

Wao !! Ouch !! Oh God !!

Parts of a Sentence

Articles

An article is a kind of adjective which is always used with a noun and gives some information about it. The words 'a' (before a consonant sound) and 'an' (used before a vowel) are called indefinite articles because the noun they go with is indefinite or general.

Instances of indefinite articles used in sentences are:

- I will reach home within an hour.
- It is difficult to find a one-rupee currency note in the present day.

Articles

The word "the" is known as a definite article because it refers to a specific noun. The difference between the sentences, "I sat on a chair." and "I sat on the chair."

Whenever we see an article, we will find a noun after it. The noun may be the next word as in "the man" or there may be adjectives and perhaps adverbs between the article and the noun as in "the very angry, young man"

Paragraph

A paragraph is a group of sentences dealing with a particular topic. Paragraphs can be of any length and can vary from only one sentence to even more than ten sentences. However, for maintaining clarity, paragraphs should be as short as possible.

Paragraph

For instance, the paragraph you are reading has only four sentences. The first sentence of a paragraph is usually the topic sentence, as it states the main point to be developed or explained in the paragraph.

Each sentence following it should be relevant to that topic, giving the paragraph a look of unity.

Paragraph

Each sentence in a paragraph should also be connected to the sentence that comes before it. This can be done by:

- Inserting transition words and phrases such as 'In addition', 'Further', 'Next', 'Finally' etc.
- Repeating key words or their synonyms, such as 'rewriting' may change to 'revising' in the next sentence, 'writer' may change to 'he' in the next sentence, and so on.

Questions

Question : Visual communication among the people are dependent on

- (a) Signs, symbols and pictures
- (b) Text messages
- (c) Posture
- (d) Body language

Questions

Question : feedback is specific information, in the form of written comments or verbal conversations that help the learner understand what she or he needs to do in order to improve.

[CBSE SQP Term-I]

- (a) Descriptive
- (b) Specific
- (c) General
- (d) Sign

Questions

Question : communication is the use of body language, gestures and facial expressions to convey information to others.

[CBSE SQP Term-I]

- (a) Verbal
- (b) Written
- (c) Non-verbal
- (d) Visual

Questions

Question : A word used to express emotion and is often followed by an exclamation mark is called

- (a) Preposition
- (b) Conjunction
- (c) Interjection
- (d) Adverb

Questions

Question : Which of the following is the process in which the receiver interprets and understands the message?

- (a) Decoding
- (b) Encoding
- (c) Feedback
- (d) None of these

Questions

Question : It is a word used in place of noun that is

- (a) Adverb
- (b) Verb
- (c) Pronoun
- (d) Preposition

Questions

Question : Define verbal communication.

Answer : Verbal communication means communication through spoken and written words. It implies use of words which make up a language. It is the ability to communication by using words.

Questions

Question : Explain the process of decoding.

Answer : Decoding is the process in which the receiver interprets and understands the message. Although sometimes errors in decoding occur if the receiver is not sure in understanding the message.

Questions

Question : Describe what we mean by encoding a message.

Answer : Encoding a message means to change the message into a form suitable for sending. The factors which must be considered when encoding messages are language, cultural differences etc.

Questions

Question : What is a compound-complex sentence?

Answer : A compound-complex sentence is one which contains more than one independent clause and at least one dependent clause joined by conjunctions.

Questions

Question : Describe the term descriptive feedback.

Answer : Descriptive feedback can be written, oral or may even be the response of students to a question while they are working. It is relevant to the task students are performing, and allows them to re-focus and improve their mastery of the subject. This form of feedback is most suited to teacher-student interactions when the students are attending a course taught by the teacher.

Questions

Question : In a communication cycle , explain the term 'medium'. What problem may the medium create and how ?

Answer : In a communication cycle, the term 'medium' means the channel through which the message is sent . Some message are more effective if given verbally on the telephone, while some others may be more effective if sent via the electronic media such as e-mail.

The medium may create a problem such as noise, which may interfere with the communication. The noise introduced may cause misunderstanding of the message even disrupt the message completely so that it is not even received.

Questions

Question : Explain the communication cycle briefly.

Answer : The main steps in a communication are in the form of a cyclic process and these are explained below:

- The First step is initiated by the communicator or sender or organisation originating the communication.

It decides what the message is, how it will be expressed and sent and who it is to be sent to.

The Second step is encoding which means to change the message into a form suitable for sending. The factors which must be considered when encoding messages are cultural differences etc.

- The Third step is the message that is the actual information that the sender wishes to convey to the receiver.

Questions

- The Fourth step is the medium or channel by which the message is sent. Some messages are more effective in written form, others may be more effective on the telephone. Noise introduced by a communication medium is anything that interferes with the communication.
- Another step includes the receiver who is the person or organisation to whom the message is sent.
- Decoding is another step in the process in which the receiver interprets and understands the message. Sometimes errors in the decoding occurs if the receiver is not sure in understanding the message.
- The Last step is the feedback means receiver's response to the message. Requesting clarification is a part of good feedback phase of communication cycle. Without feedback, the communication remains incomplete.

Questions

Question : What are eight parts of speech ? Given one example of each.

Answer : 17Th page

THANK - YOU

